Jogjakarta and Surakarta

9. Sutomo's Barisan Pembontakan Republik Indonesia is operating in independent groups in rural Surakarta. This organization now numbers about 7,500 men. Five thousand of these men are armed with light infantry equipment.
10. Iman Sutardjo's Barisan Banteng Republik Indonesia has about 100 men in Surakarta town and about 2,500 men in the areas outside of Surakarta. Their headquarters is at Bekonang, south of Solo. A reconnaissance unit is located at Plumbon, eight miles south of Solo.
11. The 2 Division of the TNI, commanded by Col. Djati Kusumo, has its headquarters at Sukoardjo, about 15 miles south of Solo. The 2 Division has three infantry brigades consisting of about 10,000 men.
12. The Dutch have a complete infantry brigade, supported by artillery, armored cars, and tanks, in Surakarta. Solo is guarded by the 402 Infantry Battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Berger. The 402 Battalion is supported by the 1 Infantry Battalion, under Lt. Col. Musch. The local defense commissioner is Major La Foret. Lt. Col. Notoharmodjo (Notohatmodjo) is organizing the Susuhunan's Guard, which will consist of four light infantry companies.
13. The two Dutch brigades occupying Jogjakarta and Surakarta are part of the Dutch 2 Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Meyer, with headquarters in Semarang. The total strength of this division is about 22,500 men. It consists of 18 infantry battalions, divisional artillery and supporting units.
14. There is little security in Surakarta town (Solo). Pro-Federalist natives are attacked and murdered daily by pro-Republicans, even in the daytime.

Sumatra

15. The TNI concentrations in the Muara Aman mountains and in Sungeipenuh were attacked by the Dutch on 20 April 1949. The Republican forces were forced to retreat. Before retreating, however, the TNI set fire to the houses in the villages and kidnapped a number of villagers. The TNI then regrouped in Tambangsawah, using the kidnapped persons as cover.
16. In Sumatra, Pesindo Communists cooperate closely with the regular TNI.
